MUSIC.

FUN BY FRANCIS WILSON.

In all likelihood the medley of farce and music which Mr. Francis Wilson produced at the Knick-erbocker Theatre last night under the title "Half a was called an opera bouffe in its original ch form if it had the same quantity of music in it that has been injected into its English adap tation, for which we believe, Mr. Wilson and Mr. B. Smith are responsible. Almost any piece jingles can be called an opera bouffe nowadays; but this does not jutify calling of dramatic extravagance tricked out with piquant English form a comic opera. It would save many oching of the amiable prejudices of people wish to retain a respect for time-honored s if a name could be invented for the amorour playhouses and barred their doors them that grotesque tumblings, slang, profanity and speeches only half a remove retta stage. Better give them no name of rude fun such as the careless entoy phous thing which has driven real opera bouffe against real comic opera. Those who enjoy the antics of fun-makers like Wilson, Hopper and De angellis are legion, but it is scarcely fair to try to vulgarity, not to call it indecency, are lifted dignity of comedy so they be strung upon and mixed with music of a pattern derived from the English music hall or the Vientolk who like this sort of thing by his amusing characterization in "Erminie," which was a clever perversion of a dramatic concelt that has sufficient ton in human nature to keep it alive from will blame him for having sought to find something enough like the old farce to revive the old enjoyment, but the advantage thus gained was bound to be offset by the outcome of a comparison which to be was inevitable. Mr. Wilson is to be congratulated that the net result is as good as the reception of his new piece last night indicated it to be "Half a King." with or without music, comedy with the part which he plays omitted, but so we have another entertainment in which everyrevolves around him, and he lavishes his comicalities until his admirers, who only cease laughing when the fall of the curtain gives them opportunity, vote that he is one of the most amusing of all the fun-makers on the stage. As music, it is not what might have been excted from Mr. Engländer in view of what he done on less pretentious occasions. His formum Vienna as well as those which come from Paris and London, but the melodic flow is not re freshing, and bassdrum and cymbals may become freshing, and bassdrum and cymbals may become too persistent even in a season largely given up to a political canvass. Of Mr. Wilson's associates Miss Lulu Glaser is the greatest favorite, and in the second act last night it was a pleasing thing to observe that she has acquired new notions of her profession and new capabilities. Others whose asmes are known and whose talents are repsected are John Brand, Peter Lang, J. C. Miron and Clinton Elder." THE SEIDL CONCERTS. Seidi's promenade concerts at the Madison Square Garden are giving great pleasure to the lovers of orchestral music, and compelling admiran for the variety and attractiveness of the music ere in attendance, and warm tributes of applaus is Mr. Classon and the Brooklyn Arion, whose thoral numbers were among the most enjoyable things of the evening. To-night the principal feature of the concert will be the Wagner numbers which make up the middle part of the programme which is as follows:

A WEDDING.

Colorado Springs, Col., Sept 14 (Special).-The martiage of Hiram Stickney Cable, son of R. R. Cable, of Chicago, and Miss Marion Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome B. Wheeler, of New-York, took place this afternoon at the summer home of the bride's parents in Manitou, Col. The bowling-alley, stripped of its usual equipments and handsomely dec-orated with smilax and pink carnations, made a beautiful place for the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. A. Pratt, of All Souls' Church, Colorado Springs. The orchestra was concealed behind a creen of palms and ferns, and was conducted by A. C. Pearson. The bride wore a dress of peau de sole, trimmed with Venetian lace, and carried a bouque of white orchids. Miss Wheeler, her sister and maid honor, wore a green organdle, daintily and taste fully made, and a large white straw hat. The two bridesmalds, the Misses Frances and Josephine Cable, of Chicago, were similarly gowned in pink gandie. The best man was Benjamin Cable, of Chi-cago, and the ushers were C. F. Lynde, of Rock Island, Ill., and D. H. Rupp, of Manitou, Col. The wedding was private, only relatives and intimate friends being present. After the ceremony, a large awn reception was held, the grounds being decorated with large Japanese parasols, rugs, etc., presenting a beautiful sight, with the grand peaks of the Rockles as a background. Mr. and Mrs. Cable will take a short trip and then go to their future home in Rock Island, a gift of the bridgeroom's father, who is widely known as the president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company.

DYNAMITE PLOT DISCLOSED.

SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS FOLLOW THE ARREST OF TYNAN.

A GANG OF DESPERADOES IN AMERICA SAID TO HAVE PLANNED THE DEATH OF THE CZAR -TYNAN ADMITS HIS IDENTITY-TWO ALLEGED DYNAMITERS ARRESTED

IN ROTTERDAM - BELL AR-

RAIGNED IN GLASGOW

London, Sept. 14.-A communication of a semiofficial character in regard to the arrest of the alleged dynamite conspirators was issued this afternoon. The communication says, among other things, that the Scotland Yard officials have been fully aware for some time that a gang of desperadoes in America has been engaged in preparing the details and arranging the ramifications of an extensive and diabolical plot to perpetrate a dynamite outrage in England and establish a reign of terror. Chief Inspector Melville of the Metropolitan Police has had charge of the Scotland Yard arrangements for frustrating the designs of the conspirators and gradually and with great secrecy drew a network around the plotters. .

The fact was known to the police that the conspirators were in close communication with prominent Russian Nihilists in the United States, and through this information the police were enabled to discover upon almost undoubted evidence that the conspirators had recently de veloped a scheme to perpetrate an outrage upor the Czar during his visit to England. The prime movers in the plot were Fenians in America. and when they had carried their conspiracy as far as they could in the United States, Tynan and the other principal agents were sent to Eu tion. They left America as secretly as possible coming by different routes. Their arrival was known, however, and their every movement was dogged by the Scotland Yard detectives.

After treating of the arrests of the dynamiters and the capture by the police of all their documents, etc. the communication adds that Rell was assigned to go to Scotland to direct a series of outrages there, the necessary explosives to be sent to him from Belgium as they might be required. When Bell was taken into custody he had between £300 and £400 in cash on his person, together with American letters of credit,

THE CONSPIRACY WIDESPREAD.

The Central News says that the plot in which it is charged that Tynan, Bell, Wallace and Kearney were implicated was hatched in the United States, and that it was widespread in its ramifications, not only in England, but in various Continental countries. The conspiracy was started months ago, and, although those connected with it thought they were working with the utmost secrecy so far as the authorities were concerned, there were among the plotters two or three agents of the British Government, who kept the London police advised of every move that was made or proposed by the conspirators from the very inception of the plot. The police here knew even the names of the men who were selected by the American revolutionary society to cause explosions in England and on the Con-

It was well known that ever since the defeat of the Irish Home Rule bill the physical force party had been active in the spread of its propaganda, and steps were at once taken to watch closely but secretly those who were thought likely to enter into a conspiracy against the Government. Thus the fact of the conspiracy was learned, the British agents in the United States completely deluding the chief plotters into the belief that they were bitter enemies of the English Government and would go to any engths to secure the freedom of Ireland.

It was learned that the conspirators were in alliance with the Fenians, Anarchists and Nihilists, and that they were all working together. The Nihilists, who do not appear to have been especially interested in freeing Ireland from the British voke, subscribed funds and dynamite for the leaders, but only on the express condition that "business" should be done on the Continent.

PLANNING THE DEATH OF THE CZAR.

The visit of the Czar and Czarina to the Queen e wagon-loads of now-litar rail. The funeral at Balmoral and their subsequent journey to alleged dynamiters at Rotterdam, Glasgow and France were deemed by the Nihilists to be the most suitable occasions on which to attempt their lives. The donors to the funds in America, however, insisted that a blow should first be struck at England. Inspector Melville recently went to Paris, where it is supposed he conferred with the police as to the best means of circumventing the plans of the conspirators. At that time the English papers were not aware of the existence of the plot, and in their comments on the inspector's journey to Paris they said, while pointing out the existence in London of a large Anarchist colony, that the Czar would without doubt be far safer in England without said, from the poet, Longfellow, to whom the play was any police protection than he would be in Paris with all the safeguards that might be adopted by the police of that city. The result of the knowledge obtained by the police does not appear to bear out the assertions made by the newspapers. It is said that the conspirators, before they left the United States, were taught how to mix chemicals to form high explosives and the use left the United States, were taught how to mix chemicals to form high explosives and the use of clockwork to cause explosions. Their teacher was a Russian professor. Through him the Nihillsts and Fenians were brought together, and it was due to his efforts that the alliance between them was formed.

The police here in their investigations soon learned that the magazine of the plotters was located at Berchem, a suburb of Antwerp, and when the plans for the arrest were complete the authorities of that city were informed and an attempt was made to arrest the men in the house where the explosives were stored. This, however, failed, but it is thought almost certain that the two men. Kearney and Haines, alian Wallace, who were arrested at Rotterdam, are the Irishmen who lived in the house at Berchem. Kearney sent Hell to Glasgow for the purpose of sounding the physical force party there as to their willingness to resort to the use of dynamite. mite.

TYNAN FRATERNIZED WITH ANARCHISTS. It has been learned that while Tynan was in Paris he consorted with notorious Anarchists and Nihilists. He always had plenty of money, which he spent freely among his associates. He was voted a "good fellow," but there were those among his companions who did not approve of his air of braggadocio and threats of vengeance against England. It was thought that he did | Fund in this country, said he hardly knew Tynan, altogether too much talking, and he was warned several times that his tongue would get him into trouble with the police if he did not put a curb upon it.

It is not expected that Tynan will be extra-dited until the conclusion of the Czar's visit to dited until the conclusion of the Czar's visit to France.

France.

Great praise is given to Inspector Melville for his work in shadowing and arresting the conspirators. It is believed that his work has put the quietus on a plot that, had it been successful, would have been far-reaching in its results, and which would have made matters worse for Ireland, instead of bettering her condition.

The leading members of the Nationalist party emphatically disavow any sympathy with the physical force party, whose ideas they characterize as chimerical and tending to undo whatever advance has been made in the Irish cause within

TWO ARRESTS IN ROTTERDAM

Dispatches received here from Rotterdam say that two more presumed dynamiters have been arrested in that city. The pelice of Antwerp, on advices from London, searched a house in Berchem, a suburb of Antwerp, and found a number of bombs and a quantity of explosives. The tenants of the house are said to have been two Irishmen, who suddenly disappeared a few days ago, and it is supposed that they are the two men who were arrested in Rotterdam.

A dispatch to "The Globe" from Rotterdam says that one of the alleged dynamiters arrested there has been identified as J. F. Kearney, of New-York, who was concerned in the blowing up of the Glasgow Gas Works. It is learned that Dispatches received here from Rotterdam say the name of the second man arrested in Rotterdam to-day is Haines.

During Tynan's tour of the Continent, and up to the time of his arrest in Boulogne yesterday morning, he posed as a courier of Queen Victoria charged with the duty of conveying an autograph letter from the Queen to the Czar at Copenhagen. Ball, the man arrested in Glasgow, was Tynan's secretary.

"The Globe" asserts that the Clan-na-Gael has been supplying ample funds to Tynan and the other dynamiters. Tynan had a large sum of money about him when he was arrested. His principal drink while in Boulogne was champagne.

The Scotland Vard officials say that the headquarters of the dynamite conspiracy are in London, but that the London police have been kept posted on the movements of the conspirator by informers in Chicago and New-York.

The formal charge made against Bell, the alleged dynamiter arrested in Glasgow, is that he contravened Section 59 of the Explosive Substances act of 1883, which declares that any perwhile a subject of Her Majesty the Queen, who shall supply material or aid or abet crime under the act is therefore guilty of felony. Among the papers found in Bell's possession were severa telegrams from Tynan, in one of which Bell is instructed to "come to Boulogne and leave the rotten stuff (meaning the explosives) behind."
After being remanded in the police court in Glasgow this morning, Bell was removed to jall and locked in a cell. He immediately became greatly excited, and a physician was summoned to at-tend him. The Scotland Yard officials have di-rected the Giasgow authorities to send Bell to question of whether Tynan can be extradited or not is exhaustively discussed in this afternoon's newspapers. "The St. James's Gazette" says that in 1883 the Government of France refused to extradite Tynan and Walsh France refused to extradite Tynan and Walsh on the ground that their offence was a political one, and consequently not covered by the extradition treaty then in existence between Great Britain and France. The treaty has since been extended to cover such offences, and within the last three years a number of French Anarchists have been extradited under the amended treaty. The British authorities, "The Gazette" says, are therefore confident that they will be able to secure the extradition of Tynan. In legal circles cure the extradition of Tynan. In legal circles, however, there is considerable doubt about his extradition, as the question of whether or not the treaty is retroactive must arise.

Central News has had an interview with The Central News has had an interview with T. B. Tynan, son of Patrick Tyran, the alleged dynamiter now under arrest at Boulogne-sur-Mer. Young Tynan, who is an actor, said that he left New-York on July 4, and had not seen his father since then. He thought, however, that he was still in America. He knew nothing whatever of the charges made against his father, but believed he was innocent of any onnection with a dynamite conspiracy.

Bell was brought into court handcuffed to two policemen. It was learned in the course of the proceedings in court that Bell was arrested without a warrant. The police inspectors, with several Irish detectives, watched Bell's hotel and shadowed him from the time of his arrival in Glasgow last Wednesday until they finally took him into custody. When he was arrested Bell protested, declaring that he was an American citizen. When he was confronted with incriminating documents which were found in his bag, showing his connection with Tynan, the notorious "No. I." he said that he had found the papers in the lavatory of the hotel, Bell is twenty-eight years of age, is arrested without a warrant. EXCITEMENT IN PARIS

Paris, Sept. 14.-There was considerable ex citement on the boulevards and at the clubs this evening in consequence of the arrest of the from all points of view. The consensus of opin-ion was that, although the conspirators were fortunately arrested, the time of exposing their plans was inopportune, as it might result in a change in the arrangements for the reception of the Czar. It was planned that he should be driven through many of the principal streets driven through many of the principal streats of this city, in order to give a good view of him to the populace. It is now thought, in view of the conspiracy which has been unearthed, that the route will be greatly shortened. This will cause much disappointment to the Parislans, who were anxious to demonstrate their friendship for the ruler of Russia.

The police here are keeping a close watch on all known Anarchists and Nihilists, and it is generally believed that many of them will be arrested as a measure of precaution prior to

TYNAN'S FRIENDS HERE INCREDULOUS. GREATLY SURPRISED BY THE NEWS OF HIS ARREST-HE IS SAID TO BE IN EUROPE ON PRIVATE BUSINESS.

P. J. Tynan, who was talked about by many people as "No. 1" of the Irish Invincibles, has been resident of this city for about ten years. His home is in a cottage in Audubon Park, near West One-hundred-and-fifty-ninth-st. He has supported his family in part by writing articles for newspapers and magazines, and he is an American citizen. The report of his arrest in France was a surprise to many of his acquaintances, who thought he was making speeches for McKinley and Hobart in the West. His daughter yesterday said she did not believe her father was in France or had been arrested, as her mother had received a letter from him only a week ago, when he was in a city in Western New-York. P. J. Cody, a personal friend of Tynan, said that Tynan had been employed in the Public Stores for a few years until President Cleveland came into office the last time, "I saw Tynan a few weeks ago," he said, "and he told me that he had be engaged to travel in the West and make campaign speeches for the Republican candidates. I did not know that he was out of the country until his wife called on me yesterday and said she had heard of his arrest in France. She did not know that he was out of the country." General James R. O'Beirne, the Commissioner of Charities, who is at the head of the committee having charge of the Irish Political Prisoners and that the committee would take no interest in his arrest. "As to the arrests of Bell and Wallace," he said, "I want to say that these arrests are on old stories brought up from time to time. I think the English authorities are exerting all their influence to use the cables and color the stories sent here in order to change the drift of feeling against them for their treatment of the prisoners lately released from their prisons. But it will not work."

William Lyman, president of the Irish National Alliance, who is a contractor living at No. 51 East One-hundred-and-twenty-second-st., said: "It seems to me not more than two weeks since I saw and talked with Tynan in this city, but it may have been longer, and I believed that he was still in the city until I read the news from Boulogne. lost no time in cabling to a friend in Paris asking him to see that Tynan was properly represented and that his extradition to England was prevented if possible. "There is one thing that leads me to believe that there is a mistake in regard to the arrest, and that is the statement that Tynan expressed his Fenian sentiments openly at a hotel bar. Such conduct is entirely foreign to his character.

"The man Bell who was arrested in Glasgow I do not know, at least by that name, and the suggestion that he was Tynan's secretary is ridiculous. Tynan had no secretary and did not need one.

AWAITING "IAN MACLAREN."

Much interest is being shown in the literary and religious circles of this city over the expected ar-rival in this country for the first time of the Rev. Dr. Watson, paster of the Sefton Park Presbyterian Church in Liverpool, one of the most aris-tocratic and wealthy churches in the North of England. Even more than by his own name Dr. Watson is widely and popularly known by his nom de plume of "Ian Maclaren," under which he has written a series of stories that has been well received in all English-speaking countries. It is an interesting fact that in America the demand for Dr. Watson's books, as compared with his native land, shows an increase of at least 20 per cent. Dr. Watson will sail from Liverpool tomorrow by the White Star Line. He will go directly from the steamer to New-Haven, where he will deliver a series of lectures in the Lyman Beecher course at Yale University. Afterward Dr. Watson will make a lecturing tour through this country and Canada, returning East so as to spend the late autumn and early winter in New-York, Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn. His programme provides in all for about forty lectures. Mrs. Watson will accompany her husband.

WEAK BRIDGE.

Eureka, Cal., Sept. 14.-By the collapse of a oridge on the Arcata and Mad River Railroad near this city yesterday afternoon an accommoda tion train was precipitated into the bed of the creek below; four persons were killed outright and number of others seriously wounded, some of hom will die. The dead are: Alexander Cameron, brakeman; Miss Annie Holland, of Riverside; Miss Kirkham and an unknown child.

The injured are as follows: David Wood, Glen-lale, badly injured and cannot survive; Mrs. David Wood, both legs broken and internally injured; two little children of David Wood, badly crushed and bruised; George Burke, engineer, severely scalded and bruised; Charles Burke, fireman, badly burned; Harvey Sammons, conductor, fatally injured; Mrs. Kate Minor, arm and leg broken; Annie Vintera, face cut and leg broken; Mr. Vintera, internally injured; Daniel Mahoney, dangerously bruised; two children of Daniel Mahoney, seriously injured; an unknown Italian woman, unconscious and will die. Details of the accident are difficult to obtain, there being no telegraphic communication with the scene nearer than Eureka. As far as known the accident was caused by the collapse of a bridge spanning Mad River, about five miles from town. The accommodation train which leaves Arcata at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon consisted of two coaches, one box car and engine, and carried about twenty passengers. Shortly after 5 o'clock a tele phone message was received stating that the train had been thrown from the track at Mad River bridge and was a total wreck on the river bed. A relife train with doctors, nurses, medical supplies, etc., was immediately dispatched from Arcata to the scene. The three cars and engine were cata to the scene. The three cars and engine were found lying beneath the bridge, a mass of splinters. The wounded had managed to drag themselves from the wreck, and were nursing their wounds by the water side.

Burled beneath the wreckage were found the bodies of Miss Holland, Miss Kirkham and Mr. Cameron. The unknown child was alive when found, but died a few minutes later.

The injured were carried up a steep bank with great difficulty, and it was nearly 10 o'clock when the relief train started on its return trip to Arcata bearing the dead and wounded. The train was met at Arcata by the entire population of the town, and a sorrowful scene was enacted as the dead and injured were claimed by friends and relatives.

dead and injured were claimed by friends and reartives.

The bridge that collapsed is several hundred feet in length and contains one pier, about midway, and the approaches are high above the gravel bed of the stream. The train had slowed down to about five miles an hour, as is customary, and was moving at this speed when the crash came. Had not the rules in regard to speed been strictly observed every one on board must surely have perlanded the entire train in the waters of the river.

DEATH OF MRS. GEORGE WALKER.

WIDOW OF THE FORMER CONSUL-GENERAL AT PARIS. The news of the death of Mrs. Sarah Dwight

Walker, the widow of George Waiker, formerly Consul-General at Parls, France, which occurred at her summer home at North Hatley, Canada, on Wednesday last, was received with sincere regret her many friends in Washington, D. C., and in this city, as well as by those in Springfield and in Brookline, Mass., where she made her winter hom Mrs. Walker was an excellent and admirable woman, and both she and her husband were highly esteemed in Paris, where they lived officially for a number of years. Mrs. Walker's summer home was at North Hatley, a small hamlet in the Province of Quebec, at the outlet of Missawippi Lake, twelve miles from Sherbrooke. Her death was caused by a second stroke of paralysis. The first stroke occurred shortly after she reached North Hatley in June last, and the second only a few days before her death. Several American friends were with her to the last. Her body was taken to Springfield, Mass., the old home of both herself and her husband, and the funeral was held there and her husband, and the funeral was held there Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Walker was born in Springfield, Mass., seventy years ago. Her father, George Bliss, was a man of prominence, and was well known in railroad circles throughout the country. He was president of the Hoston and Albany Railroad of the Michigan Southern Railroad and of the Chicago and Missisppl Railroad, which ran between Chicago and St. Louis. He was also a prominent figure in Massachusetts politics, and was Speaker of the Massachusetts politics, and was Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and also President of the Massachusetts Senate. Mrs. Walker's mother, Mary Dwight, was a member of the Dwight family of Western Massachusetts.

The girlhood of Mrs. Walker was spent in Springfield, and it was there that she married George Walker Mr. Walker became a prominent lawyer of Massachusetts. In this office he showed marked ability, and during the War of the Rebeilion he was sent abroad as a representative of the United States Government on financial matters. While there he wrote several articles on the American side of the question, which were published in the leading French reviews. A CONSEQUENCE OF THE DISCLOSURES IN THE question, which were published in the leading French reviews.

After his return to this country he was made the vice-president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and for several years he held that post. At the request of William M. Evarts, who was Secretary of State during the administration of President Hayes, Mr. Walker resigned his position with the Western Union Company to become Consul-General at Paris, France. He remained there for seven years until he was recalled by President Cleveland. While in Paris both Mr. and Mrs. Walker made a host of friends among the native people, as well as among the residents of the American colony at the French capital. As soon as possible after the notification of recall Mr. and Mrs. Walker returned to this country, and Mr. Walker died in Washington, D. C., soon afterward. Since that time Mrs. Walker had lived in Brookline, Mass.

Mrs. Walker leaves four children, two sons and two daughters. Both of the sons are married. One of them lives in Washington, D. C., and the other in Youngstown, Ohlo. The daughters are unmarried, and are at present at Rhinebeck at the summer home of Colonel George Bliss, the lawyer, at No. 160 Broadway, who is a brother of Mrs. Walker.
